" It is with much pleasure that we share with you the first ever edition of 'BELLA', Parrys exclusive magazine dedicated to flooring.

Ian Minotti
General Manager

welcome

It is with much pleasure that we share with you our first ever PARRYS FLOORING magazine which we call 'BELLA' (meaning beautiful). It is no secret that flooring has come a long way over the past few decades, and there is a wide range of products on the market. Understandably, with this plethora of choice comes confusion, and it is our job to work with our customers to make choosing the right floor as simple as possible.

In conjunction with the easy to follow flooring advice on our website, Parrys plans to bring you an edition of BELLA every season. In each issue, we will discuss the latest flooring trends and information, how to choose the right flooring for your situation and also bring you tips on how to care for your floor. We will also introduce our professional and highly competent sales staff who are the first port of call at all of our stores.

Whilst all of us have had a tough start to 2020, this is a good opportunity to focus on fixing up your house and have a spring clean-out of your old floor. What better way to treat yourself to something new that you, your friends, and family will admire for years to come.

So, it is with great excitement that we bring you 'BELLA – SPRING EDITION'.

We hope you enjoy it.

04 carpets

Parrys supplies a choice of high quality carpets.

05 where to start?

Often make choosing the right product an overwhelming experience.

06 laminates

Parrys are one of the biggest stockists of high quality and cost effective laminates in Perth.

08 timber flooring

With its superior durability, natural texture and appearance, it is no wonder that timber flooring has stood the test of time.

10 vinyl flooring

Many of us can remember the faded and ripped lino that was a flooring staple in many older Western Australian homes. Not anymore.

12 hybrid flooring

There are constant developments in technologies and the latest product to take the flooring world by storm is Hybrid.

14 the complete buyers guide to choosing laminate flooring

When it comes to selecting laminate flooring, we know that it can feel overwhelming with the large number of choices available.

Did you know that Parrys is one of the biggest Perth's biggest stockists of carpet remnants and rolls and we carry a massive range of stock to suit all tastes, styles and budgets.

Our range of carpets

Parrys supplies a choice of high quality carpets that are either cut pile, loop pile or a combination, such as cut-loop carpets. Our collections also come in different textures and fibres so you can choose from wool, solution dyed nylon or cost-effective polypropylene carpets. All of our Parrys stores carry a wide range of stock rolls and room size remnants which means you are sure to find something to suit your budget, no matter the size.

Cut Pile

Cut pile carpets are manufactured by cutting the yarn loops, producing an upright pile that has a more luxurious, formal look than loop pile.

CUT PILE TWIST

- Constructed with a higher twisted yarn
- Textured appearance
- Hard wearing
- Less likely to show traces of shading or tracking

CUT PILE PLUSH

- Carpet pile stands upright
- Smooth velvet surface with a soft and luxurious look
- Tendency to display temporary shading from vacuuming and footprints
- Formal look, sometimes called a velour carpet

Loop Pile

Loops of yarn create a stylish finish with a soft, smooth feel and can have a range of distinctive patterns created by a combination of higher and lower loops.

LEVEL LOOP PILE

- As the name suggests, carpet pile forms a loop
- Hard wearing
- Durable
- Do not have tendency to show shading or tracking

LEVEL LOOP AND CUT PILE

- Combination of level loop and cut tufts
- Stylish finish with a soft, smooth feel
- Available in a range of distinctive patterns and colour combinations

HI/LOW LOOP PILE

- Constructed with loop piles of varying heights
- Textured finish look
- Exceptionally durable, making it ideal for high-traffic areas

SISAL

- Textured loops in straight lines
- Heights of loops can be varied to produce different patterns and textures
- Classical appearance
- Adapts well to almost any interior designs

- CAMBRIDGE COLLECTION

What is laminate flooring?

Laminate flooring is a great way to achieve a cost effective, wood-like look. This flooring is made from at least four layers of material to form a firm and durable surface, making it an inexpensive and durable alternative to hardwood flooring.

These layers include:

- A layer of durable plastic protects the layers below
- A pattern layer gives the floor its attractive appearance
- A core layer made of high-density fibreboard (HDF) to provide weight and shock absorbance
- A balancing (or backing) layer that works as a moisture barrier and stable base

Need help choosing?

A popular solution for those who want the aesthetic of hardwood without the exorbitant price tag, we have a great range of competitively priced laminate flooring available in all our Perth warehouses.

If you would you like to know more, we answer some of the most commonly asked questions about laminate flooring below in these resources on our website. If you are still unable to find what you are looking for, make sure you speak to one of our experienced consultants

Parrys is one of the biggest stockists of hybrid flooring in Perth

Our range of hybrid vinyl products

There are constant developments in technologies and the latest product to take the flooring world by storm is Hybrid. Proving a popular alternative to vinyl and laminate flooring, Hybrid delivers the best of both worlds and brings the best attributes of these products at a price point that suits most budgets.

What is hybrid flooring?

Hybrid flooring is exactly what it sounds like - a fusion of two of the existing flooring options that are currently on the market: laminate and vinyl. This revolutionary new product gives you the look of hardwood while combining the best attributes of laminate and vinyl floors. It offers the rigidity that vinyl lacks due to its limestone core, but has more to offer than traditional laminate. The result is a floor that is stylish, durable and amazingly, totally waterproof.

Hybrid flooring choices

5.5mm hybrid planks

Proving to be our most popular hybrid range in WA, Parrys' 5.5mm Aquaclic collection combines the high durability of hybrid materials with rich, real hardwood designs making it the ideal solution for those seeking a hardwearing and allergy resistant flooring alternative.

the complete buyers guide to choosing laminate flooring

When it comes to selecting laminate flooring, we know that it can feel overwhelming with the large number of choices available. From the style and colour, to the underlay and budget, these are all questions that will be going through your mind when trying to choose the perfect laminate flooring for your home.

EXPERT TIP

Choose your style of flooring that matches your expectations for your home like, will the area have a lot of foot traffic or not?

To help you with your decision-making, we've written the complete buyers guide to choosing laminate flooring.

This guide covers the following sections:

- What is laminate flooring?
- Different types of laminate flooring
- Different finishes of laminate flooring
- Waterproof / water-resistant laminate
- Underlays for your laminate
- AC ratings and laminate flooring resistance
- Laminate flooring and longevity
- Laminate flooring and maintenance

What is laminate flooring?

Laminate is a type of floor covering that is engineered from several layers of material to form a firm and durable flooring type. It usually has at least 4 layers which include:

- A backer layer – this layer provides the stability and support for the flooring and is the base of the laminate flooring
- A core layer – this layer helps to prevent dents (which can often occur in real wood floors) and retain the inherent structure of the flooring
- A décor layer – this layer shows the style of the laminate flooring, whether it's a wood, tile or stone effect
- A wear layer – this layer provides the protection for the layers below, helping the flooring avoid being scratched from daily wear and tear

What are the different types of laminate flooring?

There are two main styles of laminate flooring - plastic laminate and engineered wood laminate. Read more about the differences between laminate and engineered wood here.

Typically, laminate flooring comes in thicknesses of 7-12mm. Usually the thicker the laminate, the more durable it is and the more suited it is for high traffic areas of your home.

Laminate flooring planks can vary in width as well. Remember, the wider the planks, the less flooring you'll need to cover the space in your home.

What are the different finishes for laminate flooring?

With hundreds, if not thousands of different finishes on the market, choosing the look of your laminate can be a daunting task.

First, consider what kind of look you want in your home. The most common styles are wood, tile and stone effect.

Then within each of these styles you'll be spoilt for choice when it comes to colours, grains and textures.

Some laminate flooring is embossed, while others have a high gloss finish or hand-scraped effect to simulate a real hardwood floor.

Lighter flooring can make a room appear bigger and brighter and is great for smaller spaces. Darker laminate flooring is ideal for larger rooms or giving an impression of age and character to a room.

Does laminate flooring need underlay?

Generally yes. Underlay serves a few purposes like adding an extra layer of moisture protection, so if you ever have any leaks from underneath your flooring, it is less likely to seep through to your laminate flooring.

Second, underlay also reduces noise and makes your floors quieter to walk on, as well as adds a layer of thermal insulation which keeps your home cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

Some laminate flooring planks are made with underlay already attached to the bottom of each plank. Make sure you check this before splashing out on an unnecessary underlay.

Read our guide on laminate underlays.

What are AC ratings?

AC stands for Abrasion Criteria, and the ratings indicate how resistant the laminate flooring is to general wear and tear.

The AC scale ranges from AC1 to AC5. The higher the rating, the more wear and tear the flooring can cope with.

AC1 – ideal for low amounts of foot traffic (e.g. bedrooms)

AC2 – ideal for medium traffic (e.g. living areas)

AC3 – ideal for all areas including high foot traffic areas (e.g. kitchen and hallways)

AC4 – ideal for all areas of your home and some commercial spaces

AC5 – ideal for heavy duty traffic in commercial spaces

Most buyers looking for laminate flooring for their home choose an AC3 or AC4 style of laminate.

If you are unsure, make sure you speak to one of our experts.

Read our guide on laminate AC ratings.

How long will the laminate flooring last?

How long your laminate flooring lasts depends on a variety of factors.

Firstly, the quality of the laminate you choose can have a huge effect on its longevity. Whether you add underlay, and what thickness of underlay you choose can also have an impact.

Regular foot traffic and wear and tear is another factor that can affect how long your laminate flooring lasts. For example, a home with a retired couple is going to have very different foot traffic to a busy family of six.

Remember to think about who will be using the home and how much effort you are prepared to put in to maintain your flooring in optimal condition.

What kind of maintenance will the laminate flooring need?

Of course, you will need to clean your floors regularly, no matter what type it is, and laminate flooring is no different. It needs to be swept or vacuumed on a regular basis and you can also dry mop the floors or use a very mild floor cleaning solution with a damp (not wet) mop.

Using a wet mop could allow moisture to seep into your laminate and cause it to warp. Never allow pools of water to form on the flooring. Even if your flooring is water resistant or waterproof, always aim to clean up any spills as soon as you can.

A quick vacuum once or twice a week is usually enough to keep your floors looking nice and clean. Make sure to use the hard floor setting on your vacuum.

Read our ultimate guide to cleaning and looking after your laminate flooring on our webpage.

So now that you know what to look out for when it comes to choosing laminate flooring, it's time to head into your nearest Parry's Carpets showroom and take a look at some of our amazing laminate flooring options.

Our team can help you find the perfect flooring for your home, and answer any questions you may have.

Hi Ally, I would like to thank you for the wonderful service that you gave my Daughter and myself.

The carpet was perfect for the new room and was installed on time, this is about the 5th time we have used Parry's Belmont and we will be back.
