welcome

For many, there is nothing better than escaping the wild winter weather and sitting on a comfortable carpet, in front of a warm fire, sipping a red wine or single malt whisky and letting the stresses of life fade away.

If this sounds familiar, then you'll be pleased to hear that we currently have an amazing selection of Wool, Nylon, Polyester and Polypropylene carpets that cater for all budgets, colours and styles, including some 'end of roll' remnants at massively reduced prices.

If carpet isn't your thing and you are looking for a change this winter, then perhaps it is worth getting rid of those old floor tiles and replacing them with the warm and welcoming look and feel of a Hybrid or Timber floor.

A customer mentioned to me the other day that the most 'used thing in their house' was their floor and while I have never really thought about it that way, what they said was absolutely correct. It is important to take the time in choosing the right flooring for your needs, so make sure you come down to one of our stores where our Flooring Solution team can help you along the way.

Enjoy our Winter Bella magazine.

Parrys talks about types of carpet

My grandmother had wool carpets; her mum probably had wool carpets as well, and if carpet was around back further, her mum may also have had wool carpets.

In today's world, the selection of carpets comes down to 'feel, colour choice, design and perhaps texture'. Based on this carpets are more than just wool. There is man-made fibres to consider as well like Nylon, Polyester or Polypropylene.

Wool and nylon fabrics are the only two carpets that are fire rated. If you have apartments or a commercial situation it is vital that fire rated carpets are used in their correct application.

Wool carpets may get fuzzy, can 'pill' is the appropriate word. So if you have a wool carpet, wool can come out and can float around through your house for a period of time. With the man-made fibres, that doesn't happen.

When considering Polyester or Nylon. Polyester sometimes is softer than Nylon, but Nylon is a lot more durable than the Polyester carpet. So if you're installing on staircases, for example, nylon will work a lot better than a polyester carpet.

Polypropylene carpets are fantastic because they're budget entry level carpets. Perfect for rental properties. So if you own an investment property, lay a polypropylene carpet and it'll last for a long, long time.

At the end of the day, it all depends on which way you want to go, and the application for this carpet. Are you building new house? Are you selling your house? Are you renting a house? Or have you got a commercial situation? Based on all that information we can advise you at Parrys Flooring Solutions, should you have a wool or man-made fibre and which one to pick from.

Wool: What to expect

While many people may know the basic differences between a natural wool carpet and a synthetic one, it is important to also understand what you can expect when your wool carpet is newly installed.

Sprouting

Weird in name but quite common in nature, 'sprouting' is when a single tuft lifts from the carpets pile surface.

In most situations, sprouting can be easily rectified in a cut pile carpet by gently trimming the tufts with a pair of sharp scissors but make sure you do not pull the tuft, as this could further damage the area.

If you have a loop pile carpet do not cut the tuft! Instead, please contact the experienced team at Parrys to discuss your options - which may involve professional repair.

Fluffing

If you notice your vacuum filling up with bits of fibre from your new carpet – do not be alarmed as this is just remnants of fibre from when the carpet was manufactured. Known as 'fluffing', these little fibre balls commonly appear on the surface of new carpets and while they may seem unsightly at first, they will soon vanish after several thorough vacuums.

On loop pile carpets, you may find this fluff is harder to dislodge, but a strong vacuum should normally do the trick.

Tracking vs. permanent shading

There is no doubt that many of you would have experienced 'tracking', which is when imprints are left by your footprints on the carpet surface.

Tracking is most common with plusher type carpets, and while it will disappear with a thorough vacuum, it will also likely reappear next time the carpet is walked on. As such, it is important to make sure you pay extra attention to those areas with high foot traffic like hallways.

Likewise, if you have a plush or cut pile carpet, you may notice that it develops lighter or darker patches over time. This is known as "shading" and happens when the carpet fibres are permanently bent or folded over. While it is impossible to predict where and when shading may occur, it is most often related to where the carpet is located.

Shading does not affect the durability of the carpet and can appear several months after installation.

Fading

Unsurprisingly, if parts of your wool carpet are exposed to direct sunlight there is, over time, the chance that it may fade or discolour. While this can affect all carpets, there are some types that are more fade resistant than others. So, if your carpet is likely to see a lot of sun, make sure you do your research into which types of carpet are best. Alternatively, pop into one of our Parrys stores and our experienced team can help shine the light on what is appropriate for you.

Furniture marks

When using heavy furniture, it is important to remember to use furniture cups and move the furniture regularly (a few centimetres is fine) to prevent unsightly indentations and damage to your carpet.

Need help choosing? Contact our friendly staff and we'll help you find the right flooring product for your needs.

Whether it's a renovation or a new build, we've got all your flooring needs in one spot.

Laminate vs Hybrid Flooring What's the difference?

One of the biggest questions we are asked at Parrys from our customers is about hard flooring and the different sorts of hard flooring you can purchase, especially floating floors.

Now, floating floors come traditionally as the old laminate. Laminate has been around for about 30 years, timber looks that are much cheaper than the real timber, a click system that joins together, easy to install, comes in great colours, are scratch resistant, and are very resilient floors. The new kid on the block, for the floating flooring, is now what they call 'hybrid flooring'.

Hybrid flooring looks exactly the same as laminate, comes with a huge range of decors, wonderful clicking systems, joins together easy to do yourself and as an extra bonus ... it is 100% waterproof. Hybrid flooring is made with a solid composite structure inside and wrapped in vinyl. So at the end of the day, if you're interested in any of our floating floors, come down to one of our Parrys stores.

Ask our experts about floating floors, laminate versus hybrid.

EXPERT TIP

"Something to keep in mind is that carpet can harbour dust and allergens so if you have children that suffer from asthma or allergies, you might want to consider other low-allergy flooring options which are available."

Floating Floors vs Glued Down

What's the difference?

There are two types of hard floors that we have here at Parrys Flooring Solutions. One is a floating floor which clicks together, and the other is glued down.

The floating floors, traditionally laminate or the new one called Hybrid flooring are both made with the DIY idea. It has a joining system and clicks together that you can get a professional to do. If you're handy with the tools, you can do it yourself.

The other choice you have is a glued down floor. These floors come in panels just like a hard floor but the construction makes it a little bit different. So when it comes to laying these, they have to be glued down to hug the floor. You have to make sure you prepare the floors very, very well so as to have a level sub-floor to install on.

If you're interested in either of these two hard flooring types, come down to one of the Parrys Flooring Solutions stores, five locations across Perth.

Ask our experts and they'll give you a hand on that.

FAQ

What are the differences between solid timber and engineered wood?

Solid timber flooring is made of complete, single pieces of timber. Each plank is unique in look and characteristics to the trees that they have been sourced from. While the durability of hardwood makes it an attractive option, the slow-growing nature of these trees means that this type of flooring can be an expensive option.

Engineered timber flooring retains the look of solid timber flooring while being more affordable for budget-conscious owners. It features a layer of genuine hardwood, such as Blackbutt, Jarrah and Spotted Gum, over layers of sturdy plywood, topped with a protective finish. Just like solid timber flooring, any scuffs or scratches on engineered timber flooring can be sanded down and refinished.

Best Flooring for your home with children

Ahh kids and your flooring – need I say more...

As much as we love our kids it goes without saying that sometimes they are not the best for your floor. It seems no matter how many times you tell them to drink at the table, as soon as you turn your back, they have spilt orange juice all over your freshly mopped tiles; or when you discover, yet again, that every shade of crayon has found its way across your clean carpet. No matter how appreciative you are of seeing 'luv u mummy' written in Crayola red, this gratitude soon disappears when you are on your hands and knees scrubbing it off as soon as you get them to sleep.

You probably never thought much about the durability of flooring before kids came along, but now it consumes you with every step, crawl, dribble and spill.

Believe us, at Parrys, we've heard about how kids and flooring don't mix, and no doubt we'll keep hearing about it for years to come. But, like we tell all our customers, the good news is that some flooring is kid friendly – so here is a guide to help you with your decision making.

Vinyl (Sheet or Hybrid Planks)

Durable and easy to maintain, Vinyl is an ever-popular family-friendly flooring choice. Easy to clean, Vinyl takes the worry out of the inevitable spills, marks and accidents that are sure to happen. Not only is it water and stain resistant, but you'll be also pleased to hear that Vinyl is very difficult to rip, tear, or be severely damaged. In addition, technology and designs have come a long way in the past few years and Vinyl is now proving to be a stylish and cost-effective option.

Laminate

Not only is Laminate flooring also water and scratch resistant, but it also provides the warm, timbered look of hardwood flooring; without the price tag. Laminate floors are easily cleaned and their scratch resistance makes them especially suitable and appealing to families.

Additionally, as dirt, pollen and dust can't penetrate the surface, Laminate is a great choice for those people who have family members that suffer from allergies.

Carpet

First up, don't be afraid of carpet! Soft underfoot, carpet has natural sound-absorbing and insulating qualities that make it a great choice if you have kids running around the house. It will keep you warm and any tumbles or stacks will be lessened due to carpets soft touch. As such, it comes as no surprise that carpet is a good option for staircases where slips and falls can be more common.

Something to keep in mind is that carpet can harbour dust and allergens so if you have children that suffer from asthma or allergies, you might want to consider other low-allergy flooring options which are available.

No matter if you have one child or ten, you can be sure that Parrys have the perfect flooring solution. (Come speak to one of our sales team at one of our stores in Perth today – oh, and bring the kids!).

Contact our friendly staff and we'll help you find the right flooring product for your needs – whether it's a renovation or a new build, we've got all your flooring needs.

Who will install my new carpet?

Note that all Parrys carpets should be installed on a new underlay that is compatible with the quality, and proposed use of your carpet.

Will that be loop pile carpet or cut pile carpet?

Picture this... After weighing up all the options, you've finally decided that carpet is perfect for your needs. You've debated about the pros and cons of every colour choice and have measured and remeasured every space – time and time again. You feel prepared and ready to make a confident and assured decision when you walk through the doors of your local Parrys store. There is nothing to stop you now and without a doubt, you'll be seeing carpet down in your house by the end of the week...

Then, one simple question makes your heart sink – “Will that be loop or cut pile carpet?” Suddenly you begin to question everything, “I didn't know about this...what on earth are they talking about? When was this a thing, is this a thing, do I need to choose a different flooring?”

And just like that, your visions of being a carpet champion have been well and truly floored (pun intended).

Don't panic, Parrys can help.

Without doubt, one of the most common questions we get asked is 'What's the difference and which is better – Loop or cut pile?' We are actually surprised when the question doesn't get asked as it is a very important decision when choosing your carpet. Therefore, to help you become the carpet champion we know you can be – read on.

Whilst the choice is ultimately dependant on your situation, it is important that we start with the basics – what is carpet pile?

Pile is the part of the carpet that you come into contact with, you know, the outward/upward facing part. Made up of fibres in tufts, loops, or strands, the pile of a carpet is its most defining characteristic.

Now, with the basics out of the way, we can look at the first option of what is loop pile carpet?

As the name implies, loop pile (or round wire) carpet features loops of yarn constructed tightly and closely together so that the loops stand and form a level surface for the carpet. When a carpet maker wants to create textured patterns, they often use loops at varying heights to construct the design. This type of carpet is low maintenance, hard wearing and very versatile, which means it is often used in commercial spaces and high traffic areas.

One thing to keep in mind is that if the loops get caught or pulled, they can actually unravel the carpet. This means that loop pile carpet is not really ideal for pets with long claws, and you also have to take care when dragging things over the carpet in order to avoid unravelling it.

So now you know all about loop, let's talk about is cut pile carpet.

Cut pile carpets are achieved by cutting the tops of the loops, so the pile stands upright with an even smooth surface that produces a luxurious and formal look. It makes sense that cut pile is a popular choice with homeowners as it tends to provide a softer and more plush feeling underfoot. Less resilient than loop, cut pile can 'blossom' over time – This is when the cut ends begin to unravel which can make the carpet look aged and frayed.

So, there you have it – a quick beginners guide to cut and loop pile. These are the two main carpet styles, and while we don't want to confuse the matter further, if you are set on becoming the 'Carpet Champion of Champions' you can look at a variance of other styles including cut pile twist, cut pile plush, level loop pile, loop & cut pile and sisal.

However, that may be for a different time, so here is some further reading if you require (Parrys carpet-styles). Even better, come and discuss your new-found knowledge with the team at Parrys and chances are you'll have that carpet in before-you-know-it after all.

Best flooring options for stairs

While many people love the concept of stairs in their home, imagining the charm, elegance and grandeur, not many people consider how practical those stairs will be when they have a family, or when they get older. Thankfully, no matter what stage of life you are in, or will be, with the right flooring, you can be sure your stairs will be practical, safe and stylish for years to come.

As everyone has varying circumstances when deciding on appropriate flooring for stairs, we have created this quick guide to the options available:

It is warm, soft and keeps the noise to a minimum and while Carpet won't stop every bump and bruise, it will go a long way to making your stairs safer for the younger members of your family. Plus, as loop pile and some cut pile carpet is quite durable, it can withstand a decent amount of foot traffic and with a plethora of styles, colours and price options available, you'll be spoilt for choice.

If you don't wish to cover all your stairs, Carpet Runners can offer a viable alternative. Carpet Runners offer many of the same benefits as carpet and can blend in with pre-existing flooring if that is a requirement.

Not only is it elegant and beautiful, Hardwood is also one of the easiest to types of floor to clean and maintain. Hardwood flooring can take high levels of foot traffic over a very long time however don't forget that it will likely be a more slippery and noisier alternative.

Tough and durable, Luxury Vinyl Plank (LVP) is very good for stairs with a lot of foot traffic. Like Hardwood, it is easy to clean, and with plenty of styles available, you can achieve the look you are after at a cost-effective price. Whilst not as quiet as carpet or carpet runners, Luxury Vinyl Plank is a very popular choice and can last up to 25 years if taken good care of.

Why is Hybrid Flooring so revolutionary?

First there was vinyl, then there was laminate. Now, the new kid on the floor covering block is the aptly named hybrid flooring.

Hybrid flooring is exactly what it sounds like. It is a fusion of two of the existing – and well-known – flooring options that are currently on the market. Hybrid flooring can do what current flooring options can't, without taking away from the finished look or compromising on that all-important underfoot comfort.

Want to know more about the product that is making waves across Australia? We answer some of the most commonly asked questions about hybrid flooring below.

What is hybrid flooring?

Hybrid flooring is a revolutionary new product that gives you the look of hardwood while combining the best attributes of laminate and vinyl floors. It has the rigidity that vinyl lacks, but more to offer than a traditional laminate. The result is a floor that is stylish, durable and fully waterproof.

Why is hybrid flooring so revolutionary?

Hybrid flooring is dubbed as the next generation in flooring technology. Thanks to it being 100% waterproof (not just water resistant), is the first rigid flooring product that isn't room exclusive. That means you can have hybrid flooring installed in any room in your house, including your kitchen, laundry and even your bathroom.

It is never recommended to install traditional laminate in rooms where damp might be an issue, but the waterproof hybrid flooring works a treat in those areas.

Finally, a hard-wearing, hardwood-look flooring that you can keep consistent and lay anywhere in the house!

What are the features of hybrid flooring?

Hybrid flooring is a very resilient floor covering. Not only is it 100% waterproof thanks to the limestone composite core board, but it can withstand direct heat and extreme cold. Even with underfloor heating or in fluctuating temperatures, the boards expand and contract minimally. This means no lifting, cracking or buckling of your flooring as the temperature changes. The same technology that makes the hybrid flooring waterproof also keeps it odour-proof. Why is this important? Well, the fact that the flooring is odour-proof, combined with the non-scratch surface and stain resistance, makes it perfect for laying in homes with pets.

How do you install hybrid flooring?

The hybrid flooring installation process is exactly the same as with laminate flooring. Using a click and lock system, the hybrid boards slide and secure into each other with ease.

Where can I get hybrid flooring in Perth?

Hybrid flooring is becoming increasingly popular in Perth and Australia. We have a great range of very competitively priced hybrid flooring available in our Parrys Belmont, Malaga, Baldivis, Butler & Myaree warehouses.

You won't find a better deal anywhere else!

“ Went in to look at vinyl plank flooring. Ian was so helpful. Nothing was too much trouble. Lovely man. Thank you. ”
