Ian Minottii
Chief Executive Officer

Welcome

Welcome to the WINTER BELLA Edition 2024.

Winter is always a great time of the year; some much needed rain, cool nights to sleep, fresh and crisp early morning walks. But it is also a great time to re-invent your house and have a look at what could be done to get that fresh new look in your private domain.

New hard flooring? Deep colours of natural timbers that give you a sense of warmth.

New carpet flooring? Luxurious and comfortable places to put your feet as you get out of bed.

Winter is one of the best times to change your flooring and at all Parrys stores, we celebrate this time of the year with amazing products at extremely low prices. By buying products in bulk, we can pass the savings onto our customers and help you fix your flooring projects with no stress.

Enjoy the new magazine.

LIGHT VS DARK FLOORING

When contemplating fresh hardwood floors for your home, choosing between light or dark wood is often one of the most challenging decisions.

Making this choice early in the process, however, can make floor shopping much simpler. Once you know if you're opting for light or dark floors, other considerations can be easily factored in.

Your style preference

Usually, we feel a pull towards either light or dark floors, and it's often linked to the style of the home we have.

So, first think about the overall feel of your interior design. Is it contemporary? Rustic? Coastal? Eclectic? Your style can easily help direct the 'dark vs light' wood flooring selection.

Next, ponder how each type of wood makes you feel. Picture homes you've been in with both dark and light wood floors – or look for inspiration online – and consider your reactions.

Which room?

Sometimes, the 'light vs dark' choice all comes down to the specific room.

If you're choosing hardwood floors for your office, library or dining space, what you opt for may be different to what you'd select for the kitchen, bedroom or general living area. For example, the desire for a classically-inspired look in a luxurious bedroom or den may lend itself towards selecting a darker wood floor.

Considering the amount of natural light in a room and the size of the space is also helpful.

Lighter coloured woods can brighten a room with less natural light coming in, assisting it to feel larger, so if you have a darker space that's small, going for light wood can be wise.

Practical considerations

Another key factor to think about is cleaning and maintenance.

Light floors are known to show less debris and dust than dark wood, which isn't as forgiving.

This may mean light wood could be a better choice in high-traffic rooms as it's easier to maintain. Worried about fading floors? Ask your Parrys Flooring Solution Specialist for advice on how you can minimise the sun's impact on your wood flooring.

The take-home

Whether you've settled on light or dark hardwood floors – or still haven't decided! –

Parrys Flooring Solution Specialists are ready to guide you.

Our engineered timber and oak timber floorboards and hybrid flooring options are endless. Need your light or dark wood floors to be 100% waterproof? Want them to be odour-proof and stain resistant? No problem!

We understand that new flooring is an investment, and that style and durability are essential, so get in touch with our helpful team today.

CARPET FOR YOUR LIVING ROOM

Creating an idyllic living room – where you can contentedly catch up with family and friends – begins from the ground up.

Otherwise known as a lounge room, this is also a key place where we put our feet up and take a break, so comfort is king! And, when comfort is a must, so is carpet.

Here are some key things to think about when it comes to carpeting this very important space in your family home.

Make sure it's durable

As living rooms are a central gathering place in the home, they can be busy, with lots of people moving in and out as we relax and entertain. That means the carpet in these spaces needs to be robust enough to be able to withstand this heavy use and high foot traffic.

These multipurpose areas are a platform for many different activities and this needs to be factored in when selecting an ideal floor covering. The specific type of things you and your loved ones like to do in your living room will dictate how durable your carpet needs to be.

If the flooring you've got your eye on is known for being fast wearing but you need it to last, it's better to steer away from it. A great indicator of durability is the length of the residential warranty your carpet comes with.

Carpet can get technical when it comes to longevity. There's a lot to think about such as:

- if the carpet is cut or loop pile or a combination of the two
- if it's woven or tufted
- its twist
- pile height and density, &
- how it's constructed.

Carpet can also be impacted by high humidity and extreme temperatures, so do consider that, too.

Material & feel is everything

Do your kids play on the floor in your living room? Are you a family who likes to stretch or do yoga in this space? Do you like to lounge on bean bags, as well as couches, in the living room?

All of these questions and more help point you in the right direction when it comes to the material you select and how you want it to feel and stack up over time. For example, if you do spend a lot of time sitting on the floor, it pays to invest in a softer type of carpet material that won't wear quickly.

PARRYS

For those who value quality, wool and wool blend carpets are an excellent choice. They are highly durable, comfortably soft and look incredible. Oftentimes, whether a carpet's material is man-made or natural is important to homeowners, so it's wise to have a think about that before you head out shopping.

There are many choices nowadays but, at Parrys, you'll find something perfectly stylish and robust amongst our large range of nylon, wool and polypropylene carpets in an array of colours, textures and patterns.

Make your colour call

Making a call on the best carpet colour for your living room is one of the most difficult choices for most people – and it's a very personal one.

As the colour of your floor sets the mood for the space, considering what ambience you want the room to have is essential when selecting the hue of your carpet. Do you want a lively, upbeat room geared towards fun or a sanctuary away from the hustle and bustle of the outer world? Will it be a formal or a casual space?

For those who don't necessarily have a bold living room vision, neutral carpet colours tend to win. Having a neutral base gives you the ability to add colour with rugs, pillows, lamps, statement pieces, wallpaper or paint, and artwork. The best bit is these can be easily changed as interior design trends shift. A neutral carpet choice is also less likely to date your home and lighter neutrals can brighten a darker room.

If you want to add warmth, choose a deeper brown, gold, terracotta, cream or red carpet. Dark grey is sophisticated and black makes a powerful impact, as do other bold colours, patterns and textures.

In 2024, nature inspired blues and greens are making a splash. We could go on! The choices are endless.

Another thing to look at before you decide, is what other flooring this carpet will join up to in your home, to ensure it doesn't clash.

Maintenance needs

How much time you have to maintain your carpet is important when choosing your specific floor covering. Being multipurpose and often used by a number of bodies at once (including fur babies!), living room carpet can be prone to stains and spills, which need to be cleaned up fast.

Then, there's the need for regular vacuuming to keep your carpet looking fabulous, so ensuring you get the best quality carpet you can afford is always smart.

Some carpets can fade, too. This means having a good sense of how much sunlight enters the room, and how you may be able to manage that with window dressings and treatments, is also helpful information to have when carpet shopping.

There are many stain and fade resistant carpets around so, if that's what you need, ask your Parrys Flooring Solution Specialist for guidance.

The take-home

Choosing a carpet that fits your style, is functional and durable, and lifts up your home while meeting your budget is easier when you've done some thinking before you step into the showroom.

If you've done all of that and still aren't quite sure which way to go, we understand! When you arrive at a Parrys store – or when one of our specialists visits you at home – we're more than happy to answer all of your carpet questions.

COMMERCIAL CUSTOMER SPOTLIGHT

COAST PORT BEACH

Ian Hutchinson

|| We recently engaged Parrys to supply and install new vinyl flooring in our Boathouse reception centre at Coast Port Beach. From start to finish, the service was exceptional.

Parrys mobile consultant Ryan was great to deal with. He came with ample flooring samples ready to show us and offered plenty of helpful, honest advice.

The material was delivered on time and the installation was completed within the tight time frames we'd given. This was fantastic because we only had a small window between weddings to get the job done. The installation team took its time to do some extra work on the substrate to make sure the new flooring stuck. The team's professionalism in going the extra mile to make sure the job achieved the desired results is to be commended.

The new vinyl flooring blends in perfectly with our other décor and is proving to be very resilient and hardwearing, which is very important as there will be a lot of dancing on this floor!

All in all, the fresh flooring has beautifully renewed our stunning boho Boathouse Reception Centre on the water. This fabulous transformation will no doubt attract many more couples to celebrate their wedding day here at busy Coast Port Beach.

Thank you, Ryan, and the rest of the Parrys team for your outstanding service.

FAQs

WHY DOES THE CARPET COLOUR IN STORES LOOK DIFFERENT AT HOME?

Lighting can change your perception of carpet colour, making particular areas look like they are lighter or darker than others.

In addition, foot traffic applies pressure on your carpet causing the piles to lie in different directions which creates the effect of "shading." Note that shading does not have any detrimental effect on the performance of your carpet.

THE BENEFITS OF SHOPPING AT YOUR LOCAL PARRYS STORE

It's exciting selecting new flooring for your home or business and, as this purchase is a significant investment, making the perfect choice is vital.

For many people, deciding to update their flooring and arranging to get it installed are the easy parts. The aspect the majority of shoppers find most daunting is choosing the best type of flooring for their needs, factoring in durability, quality, functionality and, of course, appearance.

With this in mind, Parrys eight WA-owned specialist flooring stores – dotted across Perth from Butler to Baldivis – have been specifically set up to simplify the selection process. Thanks to our customer-focused history, which dates back to 1989 when we set up our first store, we've got helping shoppers choose their ideal flooring down to a fine art.

At Parrys, browsing flooring in one of our showrooms is a unique personalised experience that takes the stress out of selecting a floor covering.

Use all your senses

Shopping online is obviously super common these days, however, when it comes to flooring, you can't beat heading to a store.

In our showrooms, buyers get an up close and personal look at the myriad amazing carpet, hybrid, laminate, vinyl, luxury vinyl and timber flooring choices we have available. In fact, Parrys is the biggest stockist of flooring product in Western Australia. Due to this buyer power, we can also offer unbeatable prices.

Visitors to our stores can not only readily view the extensive range of options we have, but they can actually see what these flooring types look like in 3D – and without the filter of the internet, which can sometimes throw colours off. Being able to see flooring in person is far more helpful than picturing how a screen image will translate to a floor covering being in a room of your home or office.

Another key benefit of dropping into a showroom is that, while there, you can collect samples from our team to take home and test in your own specific space.

Quality check

Heading in store means shoppers can actually touch the flooring options they're considering, helping to illuminate how particular textures show up in natural light and how different flooring options feel to the hand and underfoot.

This hands-on approach therefore allows buyers to get a much better sense of the quality and durability of each product. Whilst we carry out robust quality checks on our flooring, there's nothing like the peace of mind that comes with doing this yourself.

Personalised specialist advice

While it may not seem that complex, when it comes to flooring, there is a lot to consider.

From underlays to pile height, installation planning and warranty information, getting straight on the details is simpler when talking with a Parrys Flooring Solutions Specialist. You can ask questions on the go and have them answered fast and accurately.

Our team members are incredibly knowledgeable on all things flooring and our advice is effortlessly personalised to your needs. No more researching on the internet and wondering if what you're reading applies in your case!

Another important upside to shopping local is that our Flooring Solutions Specialists know the specifics of your suburb. This is crucial when it comes to advising on floors, because the location you're in and the type of lifestyle you live can influence your flooring choice.

Planning on installing your flooring yourself? No problem. Our specialist advice is still freely given to DIY shoppers.

Easy installation planning

Parrys supplies and installs flooring in all Perth suburbs. We work as far north as Yanchep and all the way south past Mandurah.

In fact, expert installation is part of our after-sales service and is negotiated as part of the purchase. We offer a lifetime guarantee on installation of all of our floor coverings. In terms of carpets, this guarantee applies if the carpet is installed on brand new underlay that is appropriate for your carpet selection and its use, in accordance with Australian Standards Association Carpet Installation Recommendations AS2455.

We can also skilfully assist you to measure your rooms, so you only purchase enough flooring for your needs!

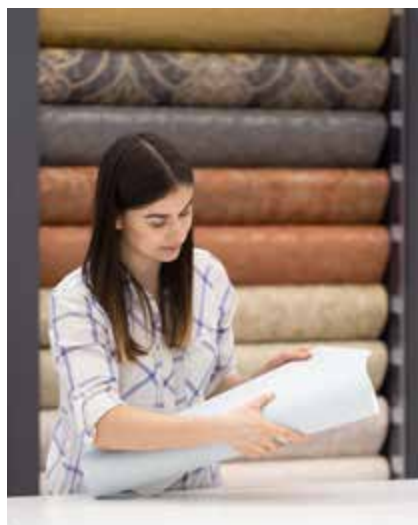

In a nutshell

There's nothing quite like the full sensory experience of stepping foot into a flooring showroom to learn all you need to know to make an informed flooring decision.

Not only will you be able to see and feel the products you're choosing from, you'll be able to connect with one of our fabulous team members, who can supportively guide you to make a final selection.

Ready to get going? Our blog, vlog, and FAQs will help you conveniently start the flooring shopping journey from the comfort of your home, before you head into your local store to get down to the nitty gritty.

Struggling to make it to a showroom but need new flooring? Get in touch with our Parrys mobile home service.

NEED HELP CHOOSING?

Contact our friendly staff and we'll help you find the right flooring product for your needs – whether it's a renovation or a new build, we've got all your flooring needs.

MAKE YOUR HOME COSY THIS WINTER

When we feel that winter chill in the air, creating a heightened sense of cosiness in our homes becomes a must.

A Danish term that's becoming more and more familiar in Australia is hygge - pronounced "hoo-gah" – which is all about embracing a warm, peaceful atmosphere to enjoy life's simple pleasures, together with good people. Simplified happiness is the essence of hygge.

The hygge lifestyle can also be applied to interior design and is epitomised by super soft rugs and plush pillows, calming fireplaces and candles, indoor plants, glowing floor lamps, meaningful items, vintage furniture pieces and good books to curl up with.

Wondering how hygge interior design applies to home flooring? Let us explain!

The big picture

Overall, when it comes to a hygge-inspired home, keeping the foundation warm, simple and natural is essential. This generates a sense of calm and wellbeing, which is critical to perfecting hygge.

In terms of colours, it's all about neutral tones that comfortably bring the outdoors inside. Lighter colourings, rather than rich tones, also create a sunnier outlook into the home.

Hygge in hardwood

Hardwood timber flooring tops the list of hygge flooring choices because it's earthy and provides the feeling of being connected to nature all while you're comfortably tucked away from the elements indoors.

Lighter, more neutral woods with subtle natural textures are your best bet.

Wide planks are a solid choice too; they provide a sense of calm and simplicity as they open up a space.

Hygge with wood-look flooring

If you're looking for a more affordable option – but still want all the beautiful hygge features hardwood timber offers – luxurious vinyl plank or hybrid flooring (which fuses laminate and vinyl) are great ways to go.

Hybrid flooring delivers a stylish hardwood look while being incredibly durable. It has many upsides, such as being 100% waterproof and it won't lift, crack or buckle with fluctuating temperatures. It's also scratch and stain resistant, so if you've got younger kids or pets, it's ideal.

Vinyl plank flooring is another wonderful alternative to authentic hardwood and is super simple to maintain because it doesn't need polishing or sanding, and cleaning is straightforward.
